The Gold Medal Presented to Edwin

We present to the readers of THE EVENING TELEGRAPH to-day two engravings, representing the gold medal recently presented to Edwin Booth, the eminent American actor, on the occasion of the one-hundredth representation of Shakespeare's great play of Hamlet.

At the close of the performance on Tuesday, the 22d of January, the Committee appeared upon the stage, and the Chairman, Mr. Fullerton, with a few appropriate remarks, suspended the medal round Mr. Booth's neck. Mr. Booth was dressed as "Hamlet," in the student's gown he wears in the early portions of the play, and spoke a few words in reply, which were touchingly sincere. The occasion had attracted a crowded house, and the whole affair passed off very pleasantly.

THE GOLD MEDAL PRESENTED TO EDWIN BOOTH BY HIS FRIENDS, ON TUESDAY EVENING, JANUARY 22, AT THE WINTER GARDEN, N. Y.

Mr. Booth is now playing "Shylock," in the Merchant of Venice, at his own theatre, the Winter Garden. This is the third of his great Shakespearian revivals, viz .: - Hamlet, Othello, and the Merchant of Venice. A New York critic of great experience says that "Booth can play 'Shylock' to good houses until the Spring season opens in April."

REVERSE VIEW OF GOLD MEDAL PRESENTED TO MR. EDWIN BOOTH.

But, revenons à nos médailles, we observe that Mr. Young, of the New York Tribune, does not like the looks of the medal. His article upon the subject is so severe that we have doubts of its justice. Besides, Mr. Young is a friend and admirer of Mr. Edwin Forrest, and between the latter gentleman and Mr. Edwin Forrest Booth we have heard there is not the most amicable professional feeling. These facts may explain, in some degree, the following jeu d'esprit of a description:-

"It seems to us a very poor return for the services which Mr. Edwin Booth is supposed to have done the American stage, to force upon his have done the American stage, to force upon his acceptance such a piece of concentrated and unmeaning ugliness as the medal which was presented to him on the 22d of January by a few of his admirers. We have seen many medals, and many testimonials, but the like of this one we have thus far been graciously preserved from seeing, if, indeed, its like ever was made. It is a curious evidence of the low state of art among us; and when one reads the names of the gentlemen who devised and paid for the horrible thing, and presented it to the unfortunate actor, we wonder if this is all that education, culture, and wealth can do to sharpen the perceptions and wealth can do to sharpen the perceptions and refine the taste. When we turn our attention from the medal itself, with its ugly forms, its from the medal itself, with its ugly forms, its disagreeable emblems, and its general uncouthness, to the inscription, we see that the English of the presenters is quite equal to their taste. With such a design the slang expression, "unprecedented run," is, however, perfectly in keeping, and the adaptation of the one to the other is the only feature of the design that we can sincerely praise. In the illustration of the affair in the last number of Lesis the scene has all the appearance of an approaching execution, an effect which is heightened by the black gown of the supposed victim, about whose neck a sheriff in a dreas coat is fastening the fatal cord, and whose countenance wears an expression of grim resignation. We have no doubt that Mr. Booth, whose modesty is one of the most graceful accompaniments of his merit, was glad when this bit of amateur theatricals was over; and his relief had only this to mar it, that his sense of what is due to others obliged him to take the medal only this to mar it, that his sense of what is due to others obliged him to take the medal home with him. We advise him that the next home with him. We advise him that the next time one of his plays so far forgets its English as to "run" a hundred nights, he should take warning from the fate that has just overtaken him, and run himself."

-The Nelson (New Zealand) Examiner, in reporting the execution of Burgess, Levy, and Kelley, three Thug-like murderers, says:—"It has been a matter of dispute amongst medical authorities whether death, in such cases, is caused by strangulation or by dislocation of caused by strangulation or by dislocation of the spinal column. The necks of the three malefactors were therefore dissected by Drs. Williams and Cusack, and it was satisfactorily proved that death had resulted in each case from strangulation, the spinal column being found to be perfect in every instance; thus set-ting this much-vexed question at rest."

RESULTS OF THE LATE WET WEATHER .- The recent rains and warm weather have had the effect of softening the earth so rapidly that many of the culverts and inlets in various parts of the city have caved in, or become so much damaged as to require immediate attention. At the meeting of the Committee on Highways yesterday, over fifty culverts and inlets, need-repairs, were reported.

The following are considered dangerous: —
Northwest corner of Eleventh and Jefferson,
Wildey street and Frankford road, Randolph and Poplar streets, Sixth and Oxford streets, Howard and Berks streets, York avenue and Noble street, Mervine and Jefferson streets, Poplar street, below Twelith, Third and Spruce streets, Fifth and Commerce streets, Water street, between Market and Chesnut, Sixteenth and Filbert streets, and Seventh and Tasken streets. The Commissioners of Highways cannot repair these breaks until the Committee visit them, and direct the work to be done.

REPORT OF EPISCOPAL HOSPITAL. -- By the sixteenth annual report of the managers of the Hospital of the Protestant Episcopal Church in this city, it aspears that the number of patients admitted in the year 1866 will exceed that of 1865 by one-fourth. The average num-ber under care has increased to between 80 and 90. The expenses of the institution have been $33,133,55, which unfortunately created a necessity for the use of some moneys which would have been more appropriately applied to the permanent foud, the ordinary receipts of last year having fallen to that extent below the expenditures.

Nativity of patients admitted last year:-

United States, 370; Ireland, 265; England, 73; Scotland, 19; Wales, 4; Germany, 70; Denmark, 7; other countries, 26. Total, 834. Nativity of patients since the opening of the institution:—United States, 2182: Ireland, 2368; England, 503; Scotland, 116; Wales, 24; Germany, 403; Denmark, 28; other countries, 151.
